3. ASTRO

Project Description

The purpose of the app is to take pictures at intervals (a few seconds). The special thing here is that the app will align with an Astro motor. The app will generate a signal in order to the device moves slightly every time it takes a picture, to introduce motion to the final composite video.

To mention about the success of Astro, Kickstarter Campaign is well-known as the most impressive master key strategy. By launching the Kickstarter Campaign to develop the Astro product, the company has achieved a huge rewards as well as good feedback from users. Moreover, those who founders of the company also shared their great learning experience to the product in creating the best solution to all of photographers across the world.

In process of developing product, Mobytelab has played an important role in creating the app on smartphone that create an intangible connection to Astro device. To be more specific, the Astro product was popular with time lapse and motion control. The app function is to support the users in controlling the camera movement to capture picture over period time. The app also help the user able to send the complete program to Astro without keeping smartphone next to the camera.

Customer

Mindarin Company

- The company was founded in 2012 as a safe place for creative projects to live in.
- Astro was the first project of the company and also the main reason in contribute the company.
- More than 2000 global people have been visit and using the company products.
- Company has a quite successful campaign in Kickstarter with 1,946 backers pledged $412,998 to help bring this project to life. Interested in bringing another product to life? Contact.

Product's story:

More than 2 years ago, Mandarin launched the Kickstarter Campaign with Astro Time-lapse and Motion Control. With the amazing support of the Kickstarter community, the Mandarin were able to turn the new idea starting with making time-lapse accessible and fun for users.

As a result, Pico was born as a time-lapse accessible for users. DSLR and mirrorless cameras can take amazing pictures and give us a lot of control, but they aren't very smart; and even though our smartphones are incredibly capable, the built-in camera's functions are still pretty limited.

Therefore, Mandarin is currently developing a smartphone app for Astro to run more advanced programs. With Developing for iPhone and Android, user will be able to send the complete program to Astro without keeping their smartphone next to the camera.
